OPINION IN BRUCE CASE

Sent Back to Lower Court for Inquiry.

OTHER DECREES ENTERED

United States Court of Appeals in Brief Session Here Yesterday and Three Opinions Were Handed Down.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals held a brief but interesting special session here yesterday, its purpose being the announcement of opinions and the designation of judges for the November

Opinions were handed down and decrees entered in the following cases: No. 480 A. H. Pollock, appellant, vs. J. D. Appellee, in the matter of J. D. Jones & Co., bankrupts. Appeal from the District Court of South Carolina, Opinion by Judge Simonton, affirmed, with

No. 483, Thomas Bruce, appellant, vs. Isidor Raynor, attorney-general of the State of Maryland. Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States at Baltimore, Md., habeas corpus. Opinion by Judge Simonton. Cause remanded to the Circuit Court with instructions to receive such testimony as will probably bear upon the question whether or not the petitioner in this case was a fugitive from justice.

No. 486. J. W. Carroll and others, appellants, vs. Chesapeake and Ohio Coal Agency Company, appellee. Appeal from the Circuit Court at Charleston, W. Va. Opinion by Judge Simonton, affirmed. Judges in attendance were Circuit Judge Goff, of West Virginia, and District Judge Waddill, of Richmond. Clerks H. T. Meloney and C. M. Dean, deputy, were at their posts.

T. Meloney and C. M. Dean, deputy, were at their posts.
Judges designated for the November term were William H. Brawley, United States District Judge, of South Carolina, and United States District Judge James B. Boyd, of North Carolina.
Immediately after court adjourned Judge Goff left for Clarksburg, W. Va., and Judge Waddill returned to Virginia Beach, where his family are summering. Mr. Meloney left last night for Pocantico Hills, N. Y., on his vacation.
Of special interest to Richmond people is the case of Thomas Bruce, who is well known here, and whose first wife is a resident here.

The Conclusion.

The Conclusion.

The Conclusion.

The opinion says in conclusion:

If, therefore, it could be shown that he did not conceal himself within the State during the period which he was amenable to criminal process, this would be cyldence tending to establish the fact that he was not a fugitive from justice. This testimony would not go to the sufficiency of the indictment or to any manner, of defense, it would be directed solely to the question whether he was a fugitive from justice—a question of fact. The court, as has been seen, can inquire whether the accused was within the State fat the date of the alleged crime, and pursuing its inquiry it can ascertain if, being within the State at that time, he remained within reach of its criminal process during the whole period for which such process could run. If this be established, then it could reasonably be concluded that he is not a fugitive from justice, and so not within the provisions of the Constitution or of the act of Congress. It is not a question of pleading presented to the court on the trial of the accused, as in United States vs. Cook, IT Wall., 185, but a question of fact to be disposed of before remanding the accused to the remanding State. He cannot be remanded unless he be a fugitive from justice.

To sum up: We are of the opinion that remanded unless he be a fugitive from justice.

To sum up; We are of the opinion that the Circuit Court, hearing the case on the petition, return and replication in habeas corpus, could judicially inquire into the sufficiency of the indictment under which petitioner was demanded (Exparte Hart, 25 U. S. Appls., supra); that it could also judicially inquire into the facts bearing upon the question whether the petitioner was or was not a fugitive from justice. And that the court erred in not permitting testimony to be introduced touching this question.

It is ordered that the cause be remandated to the Circuit Court with instructions many ways.

With this formal legal complaint as a bas4s, Dr. Kane, who lives in Philadelphia, has brought an action for $100 damages against Darlington, who is a well-known young man of Birmingham township. Honor is Done the Memory of the Late

The doctor adds that Darlington's horse was driven by the young woman of the lap in a "wanton, reckless and negligent manner," and that the collision smashed his sleigh and injured his horse.

He thinks Darlington ought to be made to pay because of his "aforesaid method of driving."

Mr. Solly to Return.

Rev. D. A. Solly, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, will return from his vacation this evening and will fill his pulpit to-morrow at both morning and evening hours. It will be remembered that the Immanuel congregation is now worshiping in the large hall at the Cavalry Armory, on Seventh Street, beyond Leigh. This room is large and well ventilated and comfortably fitted up, and makes a very pleasant place for worship. The church was fortunate in being able to secure so pleasant a hall for use while their new edifice is being erected on their lot at Flith and Leigh Streets.
